349 ▼ So much going on...

To be honest, I feel betrayed by GEOTUS who asked us to be there, that'd he'd have "new evidence" to prove what really happened.

Except he didn't release one damn thing.

Makes me wonder about a lot of things at this point...

86 ▼ They should have let the courts sort that out. VP Pence could have said "Because of the numerous letters I have received asking me to challenge these electors, I am hereby asking the State Legislatures to reconvene and address these questions of Election Fraud."

Then the Dems could have objected and asked the Supreme Court to rule on the issue.

If he tried and it failed that's a lot different than just letting the cheaters win.

MUCH better to try and fail than never to try at all!

Honestly, when I lived by DC at times as I kid I'd pray for snow to get out of school. And once we got a record ice storm that crippled the region for a week. But this would be like praying for snow in lots of places including ones that don't get snow.

The states already picked their electors. "Hey guys, some people don't like your corruption, we don't want to deal with it, could you pretend to have a thoughtful investigation and debate in ten days?"

Bullshit. I was there live. In his Ellipse speech it was PAINFULLY OBVIOUS Trump was certain Pence wouldn't do shit. Then he went on rambling for a stupidly long time the same speech and crap we've heard a thousand times. Then people started leaving MIDWAY through his speech to congress because it became obvious nothing was going to happen that day and there was no fucking way people came all the way there and spent hundreds of dollars to do nothing.

We got trapped. Antifa (feds agents provocateurs) breached and we fell into the trap. Goon shoots some innocent pede caught up in the chaos as a sacrificial lamb, and bingo. "We're the baddies." Now all the rinos have cover for their utter betrayal.

Of course if we were really baddies that first casualty would have enraged the mob beyond recall and the whole place would be awash in blood.

We the people. That's why we came. Stop putting everything on Trump's shoulders.

The battle shall never end. Trump stood for our freedoms but now it is time we must stand for what is ours and his.

He is one. We are millions.

If he drops the torch it is sad but we must respect one of the greatest torch carriers of all time ar inspire us to pick the torch back off the ground and carry one forward into the darkness.

He did not ask us to be there for him.

We make our presence known for ourselves, we exist.

Trump's work is done. This is over bigger now.

67 ▼ Trump has done his job. He did his best to restore border security, fair trade, it's a fairly long list. But one of the key achievements of his presidency is exposing how deep and how entrenched the Swamp is. Now that we have the knowledge and the proof, the question is what do we do armed with that knowledge.

WE give them the power so we can work and live normal lives, but we have the ultimate right to take it back.. and not in some hypothetically cute way. They stole an election, they are ALL an occupying force.

10 ▼ It's time that we become more self sufficient. Time we stop running our hard earned money through the corrupt system and funding these swamp traitors. If they can't tax us, they become powerless. This won't solve all of the problems in DC, but it is a step in the right direction I have been thinking about a lot lately.

For example, get off the electricity grid and find ways to generate our own power. We need to band together and start our own made in usa clothing supply chain, food supply chain. Stop of educating our fellow neighbors about this information. We don't do a good job with "boots on the ground" campaigning.

Great points. Our enemy has anticipated much of this with their use of the pandemic to destroy many small business owners, isolate us, muzzle us, close churches and restaurants and bars and gyms (all places people are known to have a chance to talk). And for anybody not sure about that let me tell you about a building I used to walk by and eventually drive when I got my first car: the King of Prussia Inn. This building was erected before the Revolution a bit outside of Philadelphia and not far from Valley Forge. It was preserved and even moved at great cost not cause it was just some charming bit of American history, but because some of our Founders met there not merely for a drink, but to talk shop. It also served as a Masonic Lodge I'm told. Can you think of it? A tavern where George Washington himself drank and met with other key figures?

But if the Red Coats could have closed every single meeting place for fear of a plague?

So we all will pick our battles and resist where we can. I can't go into detail yet, but I suspect ultimate victory will depend in no small part on which side has prepared for a lack of access to electricity and all that entails. I am not predicting a solar flare or EMP and I am not threatening to help take down the grid, but I feel that we have seen nothing yet. Those of us ready to weather the storm may find a different landscape on the other side.

Reconnect with family and friends. Don't even try immediate red pills. If you're in wildfire country get them on board with preparing for road closures and no powers. Others can use the very real threat of quakes, blizzards, hurricanes, or a plague that makes Corona seem like a cold.

And when it comes to real defense or offense, I feel a lot of people are over reliant on one platform. Don't get me wrong, stay sharp with the AR or AK. Be good at cleaning it. But there are other great tools in asymmetric fights. And they don't involve an ATFE database.

The more Pedes can avoid dealing in US dollars the better. Script, barter, tangible currency- there are people who already routinely avoid giving state and feds a big cut of every single transaction.

If your a parent like me, think about school seriously. Can you sacrifice for a decent private school? I am so glad my son gets to go to school while the poor public school kids are victimized here in Cali. Small homeschooling "pods" are springing up in California of all places.

And this may seem strange, but I think a lot of us including me, spent way too much time online following depressing and often misleading news. Focus on your physical and spiritual health. We don't have details yet, but the news out of DC is that our woman Ashli Babbitt was the only murder they admit to- they claim the other deaths were just medical emergencies. Maybe. Or maybe some more vulnerable Pedes were suffocated to death crushed against barricades or so sprayed full of chemical irritants they couldn't breathe. ▲

Please pray for Ashli Babbitt's family. The left is ridiculing her and her honorable life being mocked because "journalists" have discovered she was a conspiracist who said What We All Go. ▼

I agree 100%. If we have learned anything from this betrayal on all levels is that we can't expect someone else to do the heavy lifting for us. We have been asleep, complacent, thinking that the system works... it doesn't. Or at least, it works for whoever rigs it. We have to start organizing on the basest of base levels and work up. Supporting our community and allies allies while getting around/ rigging/ infiltrating this crooked system has to be our goal.

Cops literally are LEGALLY allowed to place IQ maximums on who they recruit.

Yes, there is even legal precedent to back this statement up. They can disqualify you from being hired if you test as too intelligent, and they actually do this. They went to court to fight for their right to do this.

Cops are a bunch of meatheads who will follow orders and are more than happy to be violent since they have no consequences. Some of them become cops BECAUSE of that reason.

To them and the government, you're just cattle whom they extract their paydays from.

The police are the armed thugs of the regime, that's the one thing ANTIFAGS get right. They're muscle for hire, they will obey whoever is giving them their shekels. They'll gladly come to your home and shoot your dog (just your dog, if you're lucky) and trample all over your constitutional rights if a politician orders them to. They are not your friend. Do you think they GAF about how it is our God-given right to keep and bear arms and that the 2nd Amendment tells that it "Shall not not be infringed" when traitorous politicians decide it's time to hand over your guns?

Sure, tons of brave small town cops are honorable patriots, like those sheriffs who refused to enforce red flag laws. But they're the minority.

Don't you ever forget that. They are NOT your friend.

▼ Same. I had a super uneasy feeling as I was walking to the Capitol today. There was just an energy in the air you could literally feel. As word spread that Pence had betrayed us (Lin Wood redeemed-never doubted him) the energy got more hyped. I can't imagine I'll ever be part of a more historically significant day in my life. I still am having trouble wrapping my mind around what the fuck just happened. Stay safe patriots still in DC. My ass split before the curfew lockdown. Counting my blessings that some tear gas and percussion frags were the worst I got today. My heart breaks for that female vet. We saw her getting wheeled out on the gurney. So surreal.

They are shooting unarmed protesters irresponsibly for real and you're worried about calls for violence online? Fuck off mate. Instead of trying to suppress others maybe go onto a BLM forum and bog them down with this? Do some good for our cause.

The thing is, this is a game of violence versus violence. That's what it comes down to. They are using violence against us to win.

If you don't like violence I can dig that man but the rest of us need to march out into this war. If we don't go and confront violence with violence you'll regret every word you say.

When they come to you and have their violent way with you good luck there mate with your non-violence. They call for violence nonstop. Are you joking? AOC the other day was talking about rounding up anyone who voted against her party, that's a member of congress, to deprive them so to ultimately wipe them out and increase their rate of death.

Stop limiting from us, in our war, disarming us, from things they do not disarm themselves with. It's like when the enemy strolls into the battlefield with a minigun then I reach for the same you're like "dude don't you think that's a bit extreme". Get with the program, get with the times. You should be telling our enemy to don't do that.

I'll upvote you because debate is important. Even if you're way behind.

I think it's always good to organize and protest, but violence is a tricky situation that even many of our forefathers didn't want and accepted reluctantly. I didn't see anything deserving more than jeering, yelling and visible anger as frustrating as things may be. We know the election got stolen, but this wasn't a good battleground to fight it successfully.

Here's one that's boiling my piss. People keep spreading word that the people who stormed the capit building, namely the barbarian and the fat gamer are actually antifa and not Maga. I don't know for sure but I

blue face paint.)

Here's why this boils my piss, what happened today is a message from conservatives to rinos and the county that we are fucking sick of this shit, that we are about to start crossing those red lines and if the dems keep pushing they will get a war. Rinos and faggots who don't like the optics trying to shift blame to antifa in disguise completely destroys that message, it further cements that you can shit on conservatives all day and they will accept defeat with dignity I'm hopes of doing again next time.

This is it, we know there is no more next time, they will steel every election now that they know they can get away with it. Don't let them steel our protest too.

8 ▼ We should own it. Was it peaceful? Maybe not considering they were trespassing. But you know what? fuck the optics, it's time conservatives send the message that we are starting to care less about the rules. The just powers of the government are derived by the consent of the governed and if this shit does not stop then next time they might not draw the line at trespassing and goofy photo Ops. Maybe they will start burning shit too, maybe they will be armed. Rinos shouldn't be trying to pass this off on antifa, they should take the message for what it was, consider the second amendment and work for the American people before Johnny reb comes back for seconds.

Sorry for the rant guys I'm just so fucking pissed off right now.

That's just the problem -- most of us have no idea how to make any significant impact in the future. DJT seemed to be our Great Nationalist Hope. He may still surprise us and come through, but at this moment, we haven't heard a word from him for most of the day, so that hope seems dim.

And please don't give me any well-meant but cliched advice like "Get involved in local politics." I'm 73, and even if I spend what's left of my life in Local Politics, it's not going to unravel the disaster I'm witnessing right now.

I feel similar in that I have no idea what to do right now, and I trust no politician to fix the system at any level. Until today, I was holding on to hope that Trump had a good plan and we might see our fortunes improve. In my opinion, this was the last opportunity for somewhat peaceful resolution. I still hope that Trump has some sort of last-resort-burn-down-the-house-with-him plan in his back pocket. We'll know in a couple weeks.

The deep state has been building up for many decades and, barring a sudden involuntary regime change, I expect it may take just as long to root out. I'm half your age, and I don't think even I will see this level of corruption adequately purged in my lifetime.

Hell, it was 4 years after the Boston Massacre until the first Continental Congress convened, and another year after that until the real fighting began. Even the French Revolution took 3-4 years from the storming of the Bastille until shit really hit the fan. We may be in for a slow, shitty ride, or v not. I know that I have no clue what it's going to be, and I'd be surprised if anyone else does.

All I can do for now is hang tight, make preparations for my family, and look for paths forward. idea what those paths may look like now, but I expect any opportunities will make themselves

Can confirm. I was wrong about Pence, I'll admit it.

If you thought all would be solved and we'd hold hands and sing coom by ya, you haven't been paying attention.

It is going to get bad. Real bad. Steel your hearts, these will be times to test mens souls.

Look who and what we are up against. It's going to get bad. Never give up. Fight Fight Fight.

... like a Flynn.

4 I knew Pence was a dog fucker, but I thought Pence was on board for Trump wouldn't of ask us to be there. Now I wonder how smart and on top of things is trump. We need civil war now.

4 I'm feeling demoralized, deflated and defeated. Everyone I know is parroting what the media says and I'm feeling gaslit. Even with this board, I'm wondering if they're right about me (us)... Am I just a crazy conspiracy theorist indoctrinated by white nationalists? How in the world are their perspectives so different than mines? I thought there was a silent majority. When did mainstream media become the good guys? When did lifetime politicians suddenly become trustworthy? To be honest, I've been feeling pessimistic about everything with all the court cases getting tossed. When I tell people I believe election fraud occurred, I have to plead a case. It's so complex that I don't completely get it, it becomes a burden of proof. The other side has the luxury of not having anything to prove. They aren't playing by the rules. I had a bad feeling about today but I didn't want to be a "doom and gloomer." However, I still had some hope. I did not care or wanted the "I told you so," as my ego isn't that big. I wanted that victory for the preservation of our country and what it stands for. Not only did they end up getting the victory (fraudulent or not) but now they will get to play the moral superiority card about how we went out. The media will spin its' wheels off with the events that transpired. The news about Ashli Babbitt (her name needs to be heard) broke my heart. How disgusting the "tolerant left" can be is on full display as they're labeling her as a "crazy q-anon conspiracy theorist" that wanted to "execute traitors." How in the world is a fentanyl heroin addict (who had covid btw) become a martyr while a 14 year veteran is being reduced as a crazy Trump supporter? What kind of reality are we living in? Someone please cheer me up. 🙏

4 there's more coming. this ride isn't over.

admittedly discouraged by POTUS' roll over today. all the MAGA energy that took the capitol was wa and not given any direction.

mad prons for everyone who went to DC and stood up.

Well if we have to suffer for 4 years of Democrat Rule I hope they screw up so bad the people who voted for them suffer the most ! I'm already pulling all my investments and putting them away so I don't go broke when the market crashes ! I've been preparing for the "What if" scenario for a year now I'm going to punish the left by putting as little as possible back into the economy and trying to only use companies who are right learning ....P.s. Hide your Guns boys you are a fool not to do so at this point !

2 Just a question about this dem Cori resolution about getting rid of all people who signed for objections. Do you think anyone will stand for that? Will all supporters be hunted down like AOC project? just curious

1 I doubt it will. Cooler heads will stifle the hotheads and remind them that any retaliatory act they do now can be turned against them in the future. Politicians enjoy promising to jail their opponents after the race but it rarely happens and this is why.
